Board of Health looks at more smoking regs

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

The Board of Health's smoking regulation increasing the age of purchasing tobacco to 21 went into effect on June 1, and now the board is fine-tuning additional smoking regulations.

On Tuesday night during its regular board meeting members proposed regulations that may affect smoking on public beaches and bus shelters with covers and waiting areas. There is also a proposal to ban smoking from within 50 feet of any municipal building entrance.

Chairman Bill Schmidt said the regulations will also pertain to the use of e-cigarettes or any material that can be vaped.

The board, including new member Astrid Weins, plans on holding a public hearing on any further changes in the workplace smoking regulations in the near future.

Also attending the meeting were Bonny Carroll, director of the Six City Tobacco Initiative, D.J. Wilson of the Massachusetts Municipal Association and Edgar Duran of the Metro Boston Tobacco Free Community Partnership. Together they help draft smoking regulations for cities and towns.

When asked how the workplace smoking laws and potential marijuana laws would fit in, Wilson said marijuana falls under the definition of combustibles and smoking would not be permitted in certain areas.

"You cannot light up a joint in a restaurant or a workplace," Wilson said, initially the law was only to cover clove and herbal cigarettes."

Much of the discussion continued about smoking bars and hookah bars. A smoking bar has a special permit from the state Department of Revere proving it derives 51 percent of its income from tobacco. There are none in Winthrop. But Winthrop does have a hookah bar that can only allow smoking outside.

"As far as we can tell it remains the only restaurant in the state that allow smoking inside," Wilson said, adding the business has been in place for the last 10 years.

This establishment has been fined on several occasions.

"I think we're trying to discourage smoking and I think if we were to allow smoking bars I think it just contradicts everything," said Board member Susan Maguire.

Brooks Dental Group is three generations strong

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

As far as family businesses go, having two generations working together is not too uncommon, but having three generations is a unique feat—especially if they are all dentists.

For the Brooks family, of Brooks Dental in Winthrop Center, the idea of having three generations working in the practice feels right.

Dr. Barry Brooks, DDS, graduated from Winthrop High School class of 1948 and spent his life in Winthrop.

"My father played cards every week with two dentists," he explained. "And when they were over at the house they would always convince me to go into dentistry. They told me I be my own boss, I'd make a decent living."

Dr. Barry Brooks, 85 years old, started his practice in 1959 in Winthrop. He graduated from Loyola Dental School in Chicago in 1957 at the top of his class. Dr. Barry Brooks spent two years in the Army Dental Corps honing his skills and then began his dental practice. He did his undergraduate studies at Harvard College, Class of 1953.

Years later his son followed and Dr. Howard Brooks, DMD, who graduated in the WHS class of 1977.

After Dr. Howard Brooks, 58 years old, graduated from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst with a bachelor's degree in 1981, he attended Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry and received his DMD degree in 1987. He is a member of the American Dental Association, the Massachusetts Dental Society, the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry, and The Winthrop Rotary Club; club president 1993.

Dr. Howard Brooks is also known for his visits to school children from kindergarten to fourth grade in the Winthrop School system, educating them on the importance of dental health.

Dr. Stephanie Brooks, DMD, made her decision to go to dental school early. She graduated from Boston University Goldman School of Dental Medicine.

"I'm thrilled to join both my father and grandfather at Brooks Dental, creating three generations of dentists caring for patients in Winthrop and the surrounding communities," the 26-year-old said, adding that she even dressed up like a dentist for Halloween when she was 11.

Dr. Stephanie Brooks graduated at the top of her class, summa cum laude, and was inducted into the Omicron Kappa Upsilon dental honor society. She is also a member of the BUGSDM Alumni Board, the Massachusetts Dental Society, and the American Dental Association.

Dr. Stephanie attended Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, PA where she received her bachelor's degree in English Literature. She was a member of the varsity Division III swim team throughout her four years, as well as member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

"My father built up the practice and had a great reputation before I arrived here," said Dr. Howard Brooks. "I wanted to make sure the reputation grew and the legacy grew. We're a patient driven practice."

SCAM WARNINGS FROM WINTHROP POLICE

The Winthrop Police Department warn that you are right to be suspicious if you receive a call or email from someone stating they are with a company or with a relative in trouble and ask you to for money via a gift card.

Legitimate companies will never ask you to pay with a Walmart gift card or any other types of gift cards. There are new scams every year to steal your money and personal information. Crooks may impersonate the IRS, a utility company, a computer company, or a relative in need. Sometimes they even threaten to have you arrested unless you send cash through a prepaid gift card or wire transfer.

They may manipulate the caller ID to look like they're calling from the IRS, the police department, a utility company, or relative and may already have some information about you – such as the last four digits of your Social Security number or the names of family members.

Never send payment to these callers through a gift card and always confirm who they state they are by hanging up and calling their officially listed phone number. If still in doubt, contact the Winthrop Police Department.

WINTHROP HEALING

Ebony LePenn.

PRACTITIONER NAMED COURAGE AND CONVICTION AWARDEE

Winthrop resident Ebony LePenn, a practitioner of Reiki and mindfulness healing for those who have experienced trauma, has been named one of four recipients of Mothers for Justice and Equality's "Courage and Conviction Award," an honor given to those whose extraordinary community work has come after standing firm in the presence of pain or tragedy to become positive change agents within their Boston and Greater Boston neighborhoods, organizers said.

LePenn said that when she lost her husband – a man who had been her best friend for 20 years and the father of their two young children and LePenn's step-daughter – to senseless violence two years ago, she found comfort in participating in a "Mastering Energy Awareness for Self-Healing" workshop featuring sound healing, a relaxing technique that has been used by various cultures for thousands of years that is said to shift the brainwave state through use of sound.

Today, LePenn has created in her husband's name, The Anthony P. Clay Healing Project. LePenn has conducted holistic healing, sound healing and guided mindfulness workshop for groups of up to 50 people at events for organizations including Peace Institute and We Are Better Together Project, organizations created by Boston mothers who lost sons to gun violence to empower mothers on both sides of gun violence through the peace-making process. LePenn, who is also a Reiki practitioner and a licensed massage therapist, often conducts the workshops with use of a "singing bowl," or quartz crystal bowl. She said that goals for her participants range from helping someone relax to providing education about the human energetic field and self-care tools for use in dealing with unresolved traumas – tragedies that may have happened recently or during a participant's childhood.

"Ebony is an extraordinary example of the untold story of the powerful work that comes from women after losing someone so precious," said Monalisa Smith, founder and president of Mother's for Justice and Equality. "MJE is honored to name Ebony a recipient of the 2018 Courage and Conviction Award for her commitment to healing others through her mindfulness work."

As part of this recognition, LePenn joined three other Courage and Conviction awardees, two Community Excellence awardees and approximately 200 guests aboard the Spirit of Boston on June 9 for dining, dancing and celebration. The event is a catalyst for the annual Mothers Against Violence National Leadership Conference that is held every fall in Boston.

"Mrs. Marley created a fun learning environment where children thrived and developed at their own pace," said Marci Hamilton, early childhood educator and daycare owner, who was one of Marley's first employees. "She was my role model and I'm blessed today to be caring for the children of the children I cared for while working with her."

While Marley suffered several heartbreaking losses in her 91 years, she continued to focus on the good fortune that she had with her six children, 10 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and 11 siblings. As the oldest of her siblings, she had a natural knack for taking care of others and demonstrated this with her students and their families.

"She had a heart of gold," said Charlene Marley, who was Elaine's oldest daughter and sidekick. "There was one time when a mother couldn't afford tuition and my mom not only let her child attend, but she also gave the woman money for Christmas gifts for her children."

While Marley will certainly be remembered as an educational legend in the town of Winthrop, her memories go beyond the classroom and spill out into other areas of the community. Charlene described a cab driver who showed up to the funeral with tears in his eyes. Proving just how powerful her kind-hearted personality was, she left a mark on even those she seldom saw. Her community efforts were recognized in 2009, when the Winthrop Chamber of Commerce presented her with the Lifetime Achievement Award for her outstanding work in education and the community.

"Nana was the true definition of strong, she endured more heartache and pain than most people could ever handle. She was widowed at age 42, and lost her oldest son Kevin. She never gave up when most people would have," said Danielle McLaughlin, Marley's granddaughter, in the eulogy that was read at her funeral. "She remained strong for her children and family because that's who she was, a strong and determined woman from East Boston, who knew she had to continue on this road called life."

LETTERS to the Editor

THE BIKES ARE GREAT, BUT THERE'S STILL WORK TO DO

Dear Editor:

I read with interest the recent letter to the editor titled “Better Buses and Bikes For Winthrop.” I agree that the introduction of Lime Bikes to the streets of Winthrop is a transportation move in the right direction. For example, the more people we get running errands and commuting on bikes the less traffic issues we will suffer in and around Winthrop—not to mention the health benefits. However, the writer failed to identify a significant problem—safety. I have been commuting from Winthrop to my job at MIT by bike for several years and the most dangerous part of my trip—what I dread the most—is safely navigating myself out of Winthrop. Why? There are no bike lanes, no designated bike symbols on the road, not even any signs urging motorists to watch out for bikes. All of these aforementioned items are immediately present when you cross the bridge from Winthrop into East Boston. Without a doubt the most dangerous intersection for a bike rider is that of Main Street and 145. It is a place where I have, on several occasions, been yelled and cursed at by motorists mostly telling me I should be on a sidewalk. Therefore, I strongly urge that Winthrop consider following the lead of Boston and Cambridge with enacting more safety measures like designated lanes and signs before someone get seriously hurt on one of these colorful green bikes that have sprouted throughout our town.

GUEST OP-ED

Pre-existing conditions: Protecting access to care

By Congresswoman Katherine Clark

At 19, Jen was diagnosed with Lupus. She had to navigate her way into adulthood balancing doctors’ visits and frequent prescription refills. Jen knew health insurance was critical for managing her chronic disease, but never more so than when she became pregnant with her first child. Her diagnosis meant additional pre- and post-natal care to support the health of her baby. Fortunately, the Affordable Care Act’s (ACA) guaranteed coverage for anyone with a pre-existing condition, like Lupus, required Jen’s health insurer to cover her and her child’s care.

Thanks to the ACA 130 million Americans with pre-existing conditions can no longer be discriminated against when it comes to health care coverage. Despite this success, President Trump and Republican leadership on Capitol Hill have started taking an axe to this vital provision of the ACA. In June, Attorney General Jeff Sessions announced that the Department of Justice would no longer defend coverage for pre-existing conditions in Texas v. United States, a court case brought by Republican-led states arguing that the guaranteed issue provision of the ACA is unconstitutional.

The Trump administration’s decision not to defend the law has a devastating effect: millions of Americans with pre-existing conditions could be unable to access health insurance. It could also sabotage the health care system as a whole.

Reacting to the administration’s announcement that they would not defend protections for those with pre-existing conditions, Matt Eyles, President of America’s Health Insurance Plans (AHIP) said, “Removing those provisions will result in renewed uncertainty in the individual market, create a patchwork of requirements in the states, cause rates to go even higher for older Americans and sicker patients, and make it challenging to introduce products and rates for 2019.”

As many as half of all Americans have an illness or condition that is considered a pre-existing condition by insurance companies. That’s one in every two Americans who rely on non-discriminatory care from their insurer to cover everything from asthma, to diabetes, to cancer, to mental health, to substance use disorder. For older Americans, the percentage is even higher: about 86 percent of Americans between the ages of 55 and 64 have at least one pre-existing condition, according to government estimates.

Yet another astounding fact is that prior to the ACA, being a woman was considered a pre-existing condition, allowing insurers to deny coverage to women or charge women more for coverage. A recent study found that nearly 68 million women and girls nationwide have a pre-existing condition, including the 6 million pregnancies that occur each year in the United States.

The reality is this that at one point or another we all experience a health scare and there is little planning that can prepare any of us for the heartache of a medical emergency. But what we can prevent is a family bankruptcy when someone gets sick. This risk is significantly reduced when health insurance providers can’t use our health conditions to prevent us from accessing care or charge us additional out-of-pocket expenses. But we can’t achieve this if the Trump administration and a Republican-led Congress continue to dismantle the policies that are working for the American people.

Unfortunately, attacking Americans’ basic right to health care isn’t a new play for the Republican leadership. Just last summer, House Republicans voted to repeal the ACA in its entirety, but were thankfully stopped by the U.S. Senate. More recently, the Republican tax bill, a significant giveaway to the wealthiest corporations, added $2 trillion to our deficit. To balance the cost, my Republican colleagues are now proposing cuts to Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid – benefits that hardworking Americans have earned.

Every American family should be able to access health insurance that is reliable and affordable. We must also lower prescription drug costs, lower premiums and deductibles, protect Medicare and Social Security, and defend coverage for pre-existing conditions. We know that the security of the American family starts with the ability to access affordable, quality health care, and I will never stop fighting until health care is a right for all, rather than a privilege for a few.

Katherine Clark represents Revere in the United States Congress.

Sand Sculpting Festival set for Friday kick off

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

The Revere Beach Partnership and sponsors of the Revere Beach International Sand Sculpting Festival have wowed millions of visitors for the last 14 years to witness some amazing sculptures. And this year will be no exception.

With more than 350 tons of special granite sand brought in last Friday from Hudson, N.H., the festival will embrace the theme of “Celebrating Literacy” this year according to Erin Lynch, executive director of the Revere Beach Partnership.

This year’s festival will run Friday, July 20 – Sunday, July 22 with Cirque du Soleil Luzia performing at noon on Saturday and a fireworks display on Saturday night. There will also be over 20 food trucks and several live bands performing throughout the festival.

The 2018 Revere Beach International Sand Sculpting

Festival will serve to provide an artistic representation and celebration of literary works of art throughout different childhood generations.

“We have a storybook castle as the centerpiece this year,” Lynch said Sunday morning as she watched the work unfold. Sculptures have until 2 p.m. Saturday to work their magic. She noted that one portion of the centerpiece is from a favorite book of hers, “A Very Hungry Caterpillar,” by Eric Carle.

“We’re celebrating literacy over the decades for children of all ages, teenagers and adults,” Lynch said.

There will be 15 sculptors and a centerpiece for people to see. Each sculpture is decided upon by the artist.

Sculptors include: Helena Bangert of the Netherlands Deborah Barrett/Cutulle of Saugus, Mass.

ARTICLE 835 - 1898 — 2012 MAGEE'S CORNER

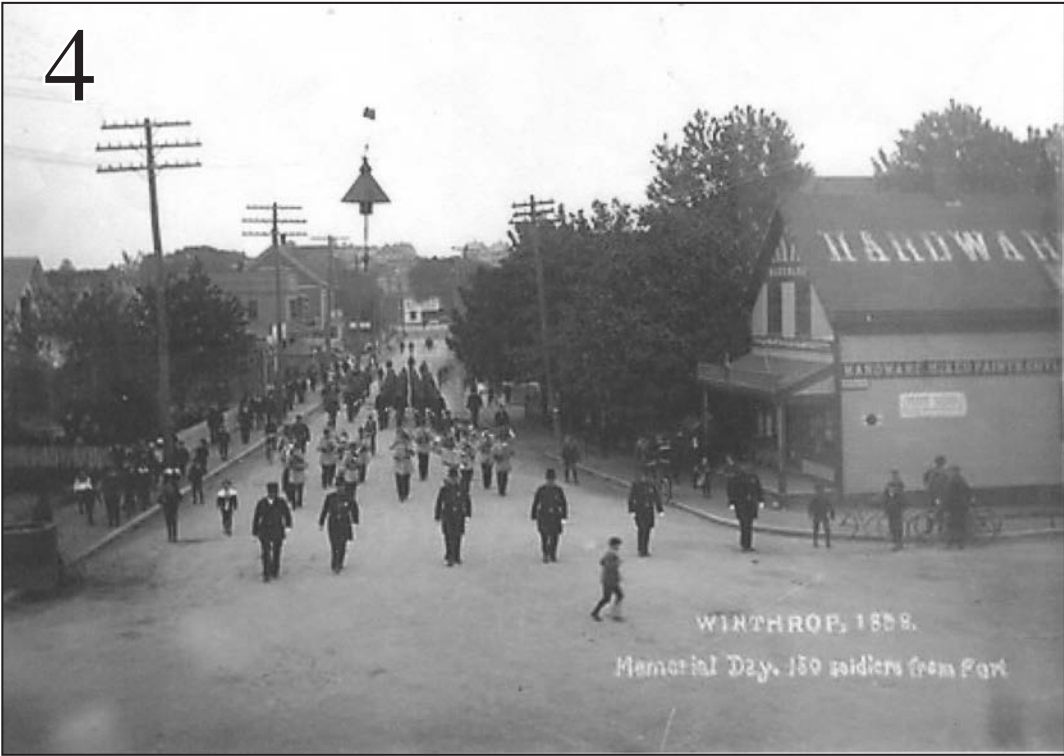

Have you ever stood in one place and looked out wondering how the same view would have appeared at different times over the past hundred years? There are a number of these fascinating photographic sequences in existence and this “Then and Now” article presents four such pictures all of which look Northeast up Revere Street from Magee’s Corner also known as Winthrop Village. This street was one of the earliest existing in Town and, as a dirt roadway, dates back to about 1700. The first picture, taken in 2007, shows this street as it appears now with the Citgo Gas Station at the corner of Shirley and Revere Streets in the distance. Going back some 67 years, the second picture depicts the same street area as it appeared just prior to our involvement in World War II. Note the cars from the 1930s. On the right, one can see the roofed area over the gas pumps at the early Mobil Station located on the corner of Revere and Main streets where Duval’s automotive service station is now. On the left, the large home shown almost in the center of picture one, is again seen. In the distance, again at the intersection of the beginning of Shirley and Revere Streets, stands a local lumber company on the site where Bolster’s Shell Station would soon be constructed. Picture three was taken another 10 years earlier and many of the buildings seen in the later pictures can still be identified along with a number of automobiles from the 1920s. With another leap back in time to 1898, when picture four was taken, we can observe the Memorial Day Parade of that year with some 150 soldiers and the Army Band from Fort Banks leading the festive event toward us. The construction of Fort Banks began in 1892 and it was fully operational in the late 1890s. The same buildings previously noted on the left side of the road were also in existence then. On the right side of the street, on the corner again where Duval’s

A number of phone calls have recently been received with inquiries from owners of older local homes concerning information on whether their house was in existence in 1852 when we became the Town of Winthrop. The 86 buildings existing on our peninsula in 1859 and the 45 standing in 1852 are identified, with the then owner’s name, in the Winthrop Then & Now book of Historical Winthrop Maps which can be purchased at the Century 21 Seacoast Real Estate Office, the Elliot Whittier Insurance Co. office, the Winthrop Book Depot & Café on Somerset Avenue, the Winthrop Market Place, The Winthrop Photography and Framing Store or by contacting this writer. This book contains local maps from 1624 to date and makes a great gift for local residents or someone who has now moved out of Town.

You’re missed lots!

Just close your eyes and you will see
All the memories that you have of me
Just sit and relax and you will find
I’m really still there inside your mind
Don’t cry for me now that I’m gone
For I am in the land of song
There is no pain, there is no fear
So dry away that silent tear
Don’t think of me in the dark and cold

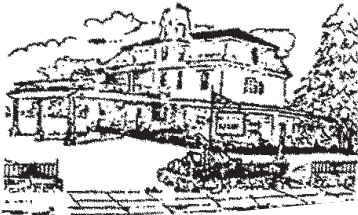

For here I am, no longer old
I’m in that place that’s filled with love

All types of services for all types of people.

Some people prefer traditional funeral services. Others prefer cremation. Some want an elaborate ceremony. Then there are others who don’t want any ceremony at all. When it comes to funerals, there are as many options as there are people. And we take pride in being able to say we offer them all.

AMERICAN DREAMS
Jola: Mother, student, business owner

By Cary Shuman

Winthrop residents have come to recognize Sofjola Thomai as the co-owner with her husband, Odise, of the Odyssey Grill and Restaurant at 63 Main St.

Known as “Jola” by her friends and customers, the 36-year-old native of Albania and mother of three also works in a key medical position far removed from the chicken kabob salads, mediterranean wings, and steak-and-cheese subs that have made Odyssey one of the town’s most popular food establishments.

Since 2010 Jola has been working at Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) as a critical care technician (CCT) in the surgical intensive care unit. She studied in a certified nursing assistant program before becoming a CCT.

Jola said she was on duty in the MGH trauma unit on the day of the Boston Marathon Bombings in April, 2013. She recalled the frantic hours as MGH physicians worked to assist bombing victims at the hospital.

“There were people arriving in critical condition,” she recalled. “I was there for 16 hours that day. It was an emotional scene for everyone involved. One or two months later, some people walked through our department to give us hugs and kisses and thank us for our efforts on that tragic day.”

She continues to work in the trauma unit at Mass. General on a part-time basis.

Arriving from Albania

The Thomais were high school sweethearts who married in Albania and lived in England for two-and-one-half-years. There she attended college, completing a program in makeup artistry. They moved to the United States and opened their restaurant in town in 2006.

They purchased a new home on Center Street in February and live there with their children, Vanesa, 13, Daniel, 12, and Era, 18 months.

“We had a condo at Governor’s Park before we decided to buy a home,” said Yola. “We’re going to raise our family here, give our children an education here, and hope to be part of Winthrop for many years to come. There’s a lot to love about Winthrop. It’s a quiet town and my family feels safe here. We have a great neighborhood.”

Pursuing her nursing degree

It’s been a busy past few years for Jola as she tries to balance running a restaurant, raising a family, and continuing her education.

While she was working at

Odyssey Grill and Restaurant co-owners Sofjola and Odise Thomai

MGH, she attended UMass/Boston and studied exercise and health science. During her studies at UMass, she created “Healthy Body Challenge,” a six-week program in which faculty and staff participated. The highly successful initiative was featured in the UMass student newspaper.

In 2018, she resumed her education at Laboure’ College where she attained Dean’s List honors in the nursing program. She has four classes remaining in pursuit of her BSN degree in nursing.

“I hope to work as a nurse upon my graduation,” said Yola. “When it comes to seniors and children, there’s a big spot in my heart for them. My happiness is found helping others.” The sole meaning of life is to serve humanity.”

THE FUCILLO TRADITION CONTINUES IN AGGANIS GAME

FROM THE PRESS BOX The 2008 Lady Vikings

By: Jim Lederman

The Tsongas Center in Lowell was a jinx for many Viking athletic teams. The 2008 Lady Vikings hoop team, coached by the late Peter Grimes suffered the first tough loss.

Ten years ago the Lady Vikings team pictured in this week's "Where Are They Now" lost a heart breaker to the Pentucket Vikings.

The Vikings finished with a (19-5) record, capturing the Northeastern Conference title. The Vikings played the Pentucket team in the North final at Lowell. The starting five had five outstanding athletes who played in College.

Co-captains Kristen Finn and Nicole Giaquinto were three-sport standouts. Kristen was an all-scholastic softball player and she was captain at Bates College. Nicole was an All-American runner at UMass Lowell.

Courtney Finn was co-captain of the undefeated Bentley University Falcons team that won the division two-college championships. Courtney was named to the All-American team and is currently the assistant athletic director at Bentley.

Rena Mallios was captain of the Babson College team that played in the Division Three Tourney.

Johanna Fisher played Division One basketball at Central Connecticut State College.

We salute the 2008 Lady Vikings!

State of the Sox

The Boston Red Sox have played 68 games at the all-star break. The Sox have an incredible (68-30) record, with only 69-games to play.

They are on a pace to win over 100-games or more, to establish a new Sox record. The only huge issue remaining is the large number of injured players.

Every team goes through its injuries every season and the Red Sox have had their setbacks – see Dustin Pedroia, Carson Smith, Tyler Thornburg, Drew Pomerantz, Steven Wright, Rafael Devers and the latest an ankle injury to Eduardo Rodriguez.

Rodriguez has ligament damage to his right ankle. He had an (11-2) record and if he is out for an extended period the Sox might need another starting pitcher.

The Sox are optimistic E-Rod will pitch again this summer; there are no assurances he will return this season.

Mookie Betts is on a pace to win the American League MVP. Chris Sale has been fantastic (10-4) with 188 strikeouts.

The Sox have five players

Eight Winthrop residents cycle toward $52 million goal in the 2018 Pan-Mass Challenge

Locals will ride to fundraise for lifesaving cancer research and patient care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute

On Aug. 4 and 5, eight riders from Winthrop, will cycle up to 192 miles in the Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) with the goal of topping last year's record-breaking gift and raising $52 million for critical cancer research and patient care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

During PMC weekend, over 6,200 cyclists from more than 40 states and seven countries will gather in Massachusetts to participate in the PMC. Riders include everyone from seasoned triathletes to weekend warriors and range in age from 15 to 84. Many ride to honor a family member or friend lost to, or being treated for cancer, and more than 850 riders and volunteers are cancer survivors or current patients themselves, and considered Living Proof® of the PMC mission.

Designed to cater to all levels of cycling and fundraising ability, the PMC offers 12 different routes, varying in mileage and difficulty, that pass through 46 towns across the Commonwealth, with starting lines in Sturbridge, Wellesley and Bourne. Cyclists are required to raise between $600 and $8,000, depending on the chosen route, though the average cyclist raises more than $7,000, which exemplifies the spirit of the PMC and its riders. Volunteers, spectators, donors and sponsors are also part of the camaraderie on ride weekend, all working together in hopes of one day eradicating cancer.

"After surpassing our goal and raising $51 million for Dana-Farber last year, we are excited to keep the momentum going as we approach our 39th PMC ride weekend," said Billy Starr, founder and executive director of the PMC. "We are continuously humbled by the dedication and generosity of our riders, volunteers, donors, sponsors and community members – it's thanks to them that the PMC is able to make such an immense impact on the fight against cancer. We hope everyone has a safe and enjoyable ride weekend and can't wait to see you all out on the road."

The PMC donates 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar directly to Dana-Farber through the its fundraising arm, the Jimmy Fund, and is the institute's largest single contributor, raising more than 53 percent of the Jimmy Fund's annual revenue. In 2017, the PMC gave a record gift of $51 million to Dana-Farber, bringing it's 38-year contribution to a total of more than $598 million since its inception in 1980.

The PMC is presented by the Red Sox Foundation and New Balance. To make a financial contribution to a rider from your town or become a virtual rider, visit www.pmc.org, or call (800) WE-CYCLE. Connect with #Pan-Mass2018 on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest and LinkedIn.

Good luck to the following participants from Winthrop:

- Michelle Beadle
- Hayley Collieran
- Ellen D'Agostino
- Rachel Darman
- Jason Davis
- Daniel McGoff
- Shane Sherwood

Gregory Vernick

The Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) is an annual bike-a-thon that has raised more money for charity than any other single athletic fundraising event in the world. The PMC was founded in 1980 by Billy Starr, who remains the event's executive director, an annual cyclist, and a fundraiser. The PMC has since raised $598 million for adult and pediatric patient care and cancer research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through the Jimmy Fund. The event donates 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar directly to the cause. The PMC generates more than 55 percent of the Jimmy Fund's annual revenue and is Dana-Farber's single largest contributor. The PMC has successfully melded support from committed cyclists, volunteers, corporate sponsors and individual contributors. All are essential to the PMC's goal and model: to attain maximum fundraising efficiency while increasing its annual gift. The PMC's hope and aspiration is to provide Dana-Farber's doctors and researchers with the necessary resources to discover cures for all cancers. For more information on the Pan-Mass Challenge, log onto www.pmc.org.

WHAT LIES BENEATH THE SEA AFTERNOON AT SHORT BEACH

Little ones scooped hermit crabs and periwinkle snails into nets, carefully examining the mollusks before gently returning them to the water on Short Beach. During the July 11 ‘What Lies Beneath the Sea Afternoon,’ co-sponsored by the Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) and the Friends of Belle Isle Marsh, families explored tide pools and overturned rocks as they learned about marine animal survival and safety.

“If we find an animal after we hold it, we have to put it back where we found it; especially with hermit crabs,” explained Matthew Nash, DCR visitor services supervisor. “Just like we have our own bedrooms, they have their own space in the tide pool. They’ll fight other hermit crabs for that space.”

Join the DCR and HI Boston for an Impact Travel Workshop on Saturday, Aug. 11, 10:30 a.m.-1 p.m. on Revere Beach. Meet at the front entrance of One Eliot Circle for a mindfulness workshop to discover the connection between travel and the local environment.

The 2018 Hall of Fame
The Winthrop High School Hall of Fame Committee will name the Class of 2018 next week.

The committee has received many nominations for individual male and female athletes.

The committee will name two championship teams, and there are also nominations for ‘exceptional service.’

Next weeks Winthrop Transcript will announce the Hall of Fame inductees. The induction ceremony is Saturday night, Oct. 20, at Winthrop High School.

Lake Winni
The flag flying on Revere Street as you leave town reads, “Life is Better at the Lake.”

The Lake is the legendary Lake Winnepesaukee in New Hampshire.

Last weekend we took a trip to visit Meredith Center Harbor and Moultonboro, towns that border ‘Lake Winni.” The exit to Meredith is Exit 23 in New Hampton. Take Route 104 to Meredith, a stop for lunch at ‘104 Diner’ is excellent.

The docks at Meredith are beautiful and exciting. Try the ‘Twin Docks’ for ice cream. Breakfast at George’s Diner in Meredith Village is recommended.

"Bunker Hill – A City, A Seige, A Revolution"

By Nathaniel Philbrick

Reviewed By Bernie Kelley

In “Bunker Hill-A City, A Siege, A Revolution,” Nathaniel Philbrick offers the reader a compelling history of the origins of the American Revolution. He details the events leading up to the skirmishes at Lexington and Concord, which ultimately led to the bloody battle of Bunker Hill.

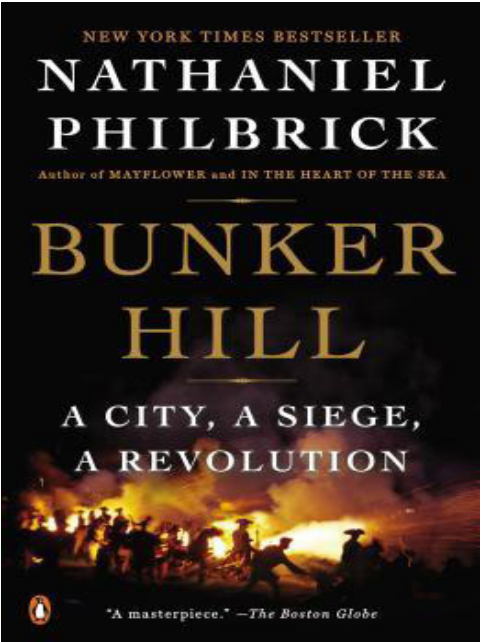

Philbrick engages the reader’s attention by utilizing a folksy, homespun narrative of the familiar characters who populate the tale; Such figures as Joseph Warren and Samuel Adams. Warren in particular occupies a prominent place in the story line. He was originally ambivalent about opposing Great Britain, but he eventually became an ardent patriot who was killed at Bunker Hill.

George Washington appears later in the book. At six feet 2 inches tall, he cut a striking figure and he embodied the charismatic leadership that was necessary to contain the British troops.

Philbrick writes well enough so that a perusal of the book never veers toward the mundane or the tedious. He is a word-smith who captures the reader’s fancy with his colorful tales of life in early New England.

Prior to the battles, Boston had been occupied by the British Regulars and tensions simmered. There were a number of incidents and confrontations including the infamous Boston Massacre.

One prominent woman who is mentioned in the book is Abigail Adams, who later became First Lady. She later became known for her role in the battle for woman’s rights as well as for her own political sagacity. She deservedly became a role model for future feminists.

The book is filled with examples of local color, from the famous Castle Island to the old Faneuil Hall, which served as a theatre. These regional anecdotes make it all the more interesting for local readers.

Philbrick is a noted author, having penned a number of non-fiction works on past nautical adventures, such as “in the Heart of the Sea” and “Away Off Shore.” He has lectured on these topics at numerous gatherings and assemblages.

As a primer for the early days of the American Revolution this book is unparalleled. Philbrick engages the reader’s attention.

It is an illuminating book, particularly in light of the fact that America became such an economic behemoth. The writing is facile and smooth. This book will stick with the reader for a lengthy period of time. Philbrick is a master craftsman. I heartily recommend You can pick it up at either your local library or local bookstore. Enjoy your reading!

Clark’s legislation would stymie gun violence by preventing perpetrators of animal cruelty from accessing firearms

Congresswoman Katherine Clark last week introduced the Animal Violence Exposes Real Threat (AVERT) of Future Gun Violence Act as a commonsense step toward preventing individuals with a propensity for violence from accessing firearms. The bill prohibits individuals with a misdemeanor conviction for animal cruelty from possessing a firearm.

“There is a well-documented link between animal abuse and future violence,” said Congresswoman Clark. “From Columbine to Parkland to Sutherland Springs, these perpetrators of mass gun violence had a history of animal abuse, and addressing this pattern of behavior is part of the solution when it comes to preventing gun violence and saving lives.”

The AVERT Act seeks to close a loophole created in the prosecution of those convicted of animal cruelty. Current federal law prohibits individuals who have been convicted of a felony from possessing firearms. However, in many states, animal abuse is often prosecuted as a misdemeanor. As a result, individuals who have committed a violent crime that is predictive of future violence are still allowed to possess firearms. This used to be the case with misdemeanor domestic violence convictions, another crime with high risk of future violence. In 1996, Congress acted to close this dangerous loophole by prohibiting individuals with misdemeanor convictions from possessing a firearm. The AVERT Act seeks to accomplish the same objective.

The greatest indicator of future violence is past violent behavior,” said Christian Heyne, Legislative Director of the Coalition to Stop Gun Violence. “Cruelty toward and abuse of animals is often seen as a warning sign for domestic abuse and other violent behavior. The AVERT Future Gun Violence Act of 2018 identifies this warning sign and takes the important step of prohibiting the possession of a gun for someone convicted of animal abuse. We thank Representative Clark for her attention to this issue and full support the passage of this bill.”

“We commend Rep. Clark for her leadership on animal protection issues, and we thank her for highlighting the link between animal cruelty and violence toward people,” said Sara Amundson, president of the Humane Society Legislative Fund. “For years, the FBI has profiled mass shooters who had early incidences of animal cruelty which escalated to violent behavior towards humans. Cruelty in any form must be taken seriously and stopped. Law enforcement has long recognized this link, and this legislation would make communities safer by taking action to intervene early.”

The American Psychological Association is also supporting the legislation.

According to a study conducted by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (MSPCA) and Northeastern University, individuals who commit animal abuse are five times more likely to commit violence against people than individuals who do not abuse animals. In fact, nearly half of all perpetrators of school shootings between 1988 and 2012 engaged in some form of animal cruelty. On average, 70 percent of convicted animal abusers will commit another crime within 10 years and nearly 40 percent of those follow-on crimes will be violent. This link between animal abuse and future criminality is so strong that in 2016 the FBI amended the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS) to start collecting data specifically on animal abuse.

ASIAN TWIST CHICKEN WINGS

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 sun-dried tomatoes
- 1/4 cup white wine
- 1/4 cup barbeque sauce
- 1 teaspoon sesame oil
- 1 tablespoon hot pepper sauce
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon distilled white vinegar

- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 20 chicken wings
- 2 teaspoons minced garlic
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1 lime, cut into wedges
- 1 1/2 teaspoons sesame seeds

Directions:

1. Place the sun-dried tomatoes and white wine into a blender; puree until smooth, then pour into a saucepan. Stir in the barbeque sauce, sesame oil, hot pepper sauce, soy sauce, vinegar, honey, and cornstarch. Bring to a simmer over medium-high heat, then reduce heat to medium-low, and simmer for several minutes until thickened. Remove from heat, and allow to cool.
2. While the marinade is cooling, pierce the chicken wings using a fork, and place into a mixing bowl. Toss the chicken wings with the garlic, chili powder, salt, and pepper. Pour the cooled marinade over the wings, and stir to coat. Cover, and refrigerate at least 2 hours.
3. Preheat an outdoor grill for medium heat, and lightly oil the grate.
4. Remove the chicken wings from the marinade, and shake off excess. Discard the remaining marinade. Cook the wings on the preheated grill until no longer pink at the bone, about 20 minutes. Turn the wings frequently as they cook to ensure even cooking. Place the cooked wings on a serving platter; squeeze the lime wedges over the wings, and sprinkle with sesame seeds to serve.

MYRWA TO CONCENTRATE ON CLIMATE CHANGE, ADAPTATION

CHELSEA - On the heels of record-setting flood events in January and March 2018, the Mystic River Watershed Association (MyRWA) announced that it is updating its core mission and resources to help municipalities manage the extreme weather associated with climate change.

“Slowing down climate change is all about managing energy,” said Patrick Herron, MyRWA’s executive director. “Adapting to climate change is all about managing water—both flooding and drought. Water is something that we have thought about for over four decades.”

The Mystic River watershed spans 21 cities and towns from Woburn through Revere. This spring, MyRWA staff met with nearly fifty state and local stakeholders to best understand how a regional watershed association could help municipalities become more resilient to flooding, drought and heat.

“We heard over and over from cities and towns that they can’t manage flooding from just within their municipal boundaries,” explained Herron. “Stormwater flooding in Medford for example, has its origins in upstream communities. Coastal storms below the Amelia Earhart Dam threaten both New England’s largest produce distribution center and Logan Airport’s jet fuel supply.”

“We’re concerned about the neighborhoods and residents living in the shadows of massive petroleum storage tanks and other industries which are projected to be severely impacted by climate change. When the flood waters and chemicals reach homes, how will our communities be protected?” asked Roseann Bongiovanni, executive director of GreenRoots in Chelsea. “We’ve seen neighborhoods in Louisiana, Puerto Rico and Houston be decimated. Chelsea and East Boston could be next.”

Based on this feedback, MyRWA requested and received a $115,000 grant from the Barr Foundation that will allow the non-profit to work with municipalities, businesses and community organizations on an action-oriented, regional, climate resilience strategy for the Mystic River Watershed. This grant will allow MyRWA to hire Julie Wormser to lead this new program.

“The Barr Foundation’s climate resilience grantmaking has historically focused on Boston. Yet, we know climate change is no respecter of city boundaries. If some act in isolation, neighboring communities could actually become more vulnerable,” said Mary Skelton Roberts, co-director of Barr’s Climate Program. “It is our privilege to support MyRWA’s efforts to advance solutions at a more expansive, watershed scale.”

As executive director of The Boston Harbor Association, Wormser was instrumental in drawing attention to Boston’s need to prepare for coastal flooding from extreme storms and sea level rise. She coauthored Preparing for the Rising Tide and Designing With Water and co-lead the Boston Living with Water international design competition with the City of Boston and Boston Society of Architects. She will join MyRWA as its deputy director beginning July 1st.

“Three of the US cities most engaged in climate preparedness—Boston, Cambridge and Somerville—are located in the Mystic River Watershed,” said Wormser. “This grant will allow us collectively to share information and lessons learned since Superstorm Sandy with lower-resourced municipalities. By working regionally and with the State, we can also create multiple benefit solutions such as riverfront greenways that double as flood protection. It’s very inspiring.”

CJL TO AFFILIATE WITH JGS

CHELSEA - Chelsea Jewish Lifecare (CJL), a highly respected leader in senior living with campuses in Chelsea and Peabody, and JGS Life-care (JGS) a leading health care system serving seniors and their families in western Massachusetts, announced their intention to affiliate.

“Affiliating our two organizations makes a great deal of sense at this time,” said Adam Berman, president of Chelsea Jewish Lifecare. “CJL and JGS share the same mission, philosophy, values and goals. We both strive to provide the highest possible quality of care. For us, this common synergy is the key to a long and successful relationship.”

“Our organizations are similar and like-minded in many regards,” said Susan Goldsmith, chair of the board for JGS Lifecare. “Both are centenarian organizations that have been serving seniors for over 100 years. We are both non-profit, faith-based and founded on Jewish principles while serving people of all faiths. We offer the same spectrum of services, including skilled nursing, long-term care, short-term rehabilitation, home health and hospice, assisted living, independent living, and adult day health care. Above all, our commitment to providing the best possible care for our elderly community is the driving force behind both institutions and all we do.”

The relationship between CJL and JGS has developed over recent years. After Chelsea Jewish opened the award-winning Leonard Florence Center for Living in 2010, the country’s first urban model Green House skilled nursing facility, JGS consulted with CJL in preparation for the construction of its own Green House model. The highly acclaimed Sosin Center for Rehabilitation opened in 2016 on the Longmeadow campus. This affiliation is therefore a natural progression of the developing relationship between the two organizations. Once consummated, CJL will manage the daily affairs of JGS in accordance with the direction set by the JGS Board of Directors.

“This affiliation is beneficial to both institutions and will ensure our stability and future growth for generations to come,” continued Goldsmith. “It’s no secret that across the health care continuum, it’s become increasingly important for organizations to come together for long-term viability, to learn best practices from each other and to better serve the greater good.”

“We believe this is a terrific opportunity for us to combine our expertise to better serve the growing senior population across the state of Massachusetts,” said Barry Berman, CEO of Chelsea Jewish Lifecare. “Our combined resources and economies of scale will ensure the future growth and enhancement of all of our services.”

MAN CHARGED WITH MAKING BOMB

EAST BOSTON - A 28-year-old Webster Street man with a mysterious past was arraigned bedside at Mass General Hospital with second-degree burns caused by an explosion unleashed in the second floor of his apartment on Sunday – an explosion police said came about when he was “tinkering with chemicals” to allegedly make a bomb.

At approximately 12:40 a.m. on Sunday, members of the Boston Police Department, Boston Fire Department, and Boston EMS responded to the area of 88 Webster St., where an explosion in Mikula’s second floor apartment had blown two windows and their frames into the street and caused additional structural and interior damage.

Mikula, who suffered burns in the blast, was transported to Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment. No other injuries were reported.

During a press conference Sunday afternoon, Police Commissioner William Evans assured the public that there was no terrorist plot believed to be in the works. Police did say there was evidence that Mikula was trying to make a pipe bomb out of PVC pipe.

“The good thing is we don’t believe this has anything to do with terrorism here,” said Evans. “Someone had weapons in there and was playing around with chemicals and powder and that blew up on him.”

While police investigated, numerous neighbors were evacuated from their homes while search warrants were executed. The evacuations continued into Sunday.

During the search, Boston Police recovered materials consistent with those used to make explosives and PVC pipes configured into what appeared to be a pipe bomb, prosecutors said on Monday at arraignment in Mass General. Also recovered were two handguns, including a loaded semi-automatic handgun with a high capacity magazine; a rifle; hundreds of rounds of live ammunition; homemade fireworks; and two air rifles.

The explosion caused structural damage to the interior of the home, and was said to have blown holes in the ceiling and floor – though that hadn’t been confirmed by ISD.

The Boston Police Bomb Squad initiated a protective sweep initially on response, and observed the bomb-making evidence in plain sight.

The FBI and ATF then came in to assist in collecting the home-made bomb-making materials.

Mikula was charged with possession of explosives, possession of an incendiary device, discharge of explosives, possession of a large capacity firearm, carrying a loaded firearm, unattended firearm, unattended ammunition, unlawful possession of ammunition, and three counts of unlawful possession of a firearm as a subsequent offense. East Boston Municipal Court Judge John McDonald set bail in the amount of $200,000 and ordered that Mikula be subject to home confinement and GPS monitoring in the event he posts that amount.

Assistant District Attorney Brian LeBlanc said at arraignment that Mikula was previously convicted of illegally possessing a firearm in 2009.

Mikula’s history has also drawn some questions. Internet searches showed that he is a lead bartender at a high-end Boylston Street bar abutting the Public Garden. It also indicated he attended Boston Latin and was an Army Ranger for some years – though none of that was fully confirmed.

Other media outlets reported that he had been charged in an identity theft situation with an elderly man in Allston-Brighton some years ago.

Mikula was represented or bail purposes only by Arthur Shabo. He is expected to appear in court Aug. 6.

KAYAKING RETURNS TO CONSTITUTION BEACH

EAST BOSTON - In East Boston we have one of the nation’s cleanest beaches and harbor, but as a community a majority of residents rarely use it. If you ask the average East Bostonian how often they’ve gone on a canoe, kayak or rowboat the majority of people would most likely answer ‘never’ or ‘very rarely.’

With over 15 miles of coastline, Eastie’s waterfront is a little-known beauty of Massachusetts.

Over the past several years the East Boston Neighborhood of Affordable Housing (NOAH) has been changing that trend and getting more and more residents out onto the water to enjoy the summer months as they should be enjoyed.

Last Thursday, NOAH has brought back free community kayaking at Constitution Beach.

The program will run until August 22, on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There will be professionals available for lessons, so no experience is needed. All are welcome to attend, and no prior registration is required, but those who are under 18 must have a permission slip signed by a parent or guardian.

Children ages 10 to 14 may kayak alone if accompanied on the water by an adult in another kayak. Children under age 10 may paddle if accompanied on a boat by a parent or legal guardian.

NOAH expects another very successful kayaking program in the third year of the program, looking to serve

Baker-Polito administration proposes $150 million investment in public education, school safety package

The Baker-Polito administration filed legislation last week providing $150 million across K-12 and higher education programs, including funds to support school safety, strengthen mental health programs in schools, provide additional pathways to higher education opportunities, and address substance misuse prevention, education and screening for students.

“These targeted investments will make our schools safer and provide our students the resources they need to access a great education,” said Gov. Charlie Baker. “This supplemental budget includes resources for cities and towns to improve security measures in school buildings and boosts mental health resources for educators across the Commonwealth. Our administration looks forward to working with the Legislature to promptly approve this funding.”

“This bill will provide the Commonwealth’s students with improved access to mental health and support services, as well as training to report threats in schools,” said Lt. Governor Karyn Polito. “These new resources are important tools to improve school safety in our communities.”

The administration is proposing a wide-ranging $72 million package to make school security upgrades in the Commonwealth’s schools and provide resources to students, staff, and first responders to better respond to threats within schools. Under this bill, each superintendent would report annually to the Department of Secondary and Elementary confirming whether they have a multi-hazard evacuation plan in place, as required by state law. In addition, they would report on any trainings, exercises, or simulations related to the plan that were conducted in the prior year.

This package includes:

- $40 million in additional aid to school districts to hire additional social workers, mental health counselors and psychologists
- $20 million in matching grants for security and communications upgrades in K-12 schools and at public colleges and universities
- $4 million to provide training to school resource officers
- $2.4 million to create a tip line to provide public safety and school personnel with timely information on potential risks
- $2 million for a statewide “Say Something” campaign
- $1 million for school safety training for educators, health officials, and first responders
- $750,000 for the Safe and Supportive Schools Initiative
- $500,000 for sharing best practices in emergency planning, threat assessment, and rapid response
- $500,000 to create a school safety website

The supplemental budget also includes $10 million for substance use prevention, education, and screening for school-aged young people as part of the Administration’s comprehensive opioid legislation, the CARE Act.

Earlier this session, the Baker-Polito administration proposed a second major legislative effort to address the opioid crisis called the CARE Act. The bill is currently before the Legislature and proposes the creation of a statewide standing order for naloxone, increases access to treatment and recovery services including expanding the use of recovery coaches, and includes important provisions to educate youth in the classroom at a young age about the dangers of opioids.

The administration is also proposing several investments across K-12 and higher education programs, including programs that will increase access to post-secondary opportunities:

$30 million for targeted intervention and turnaround efforts aimed at closing student achievement gaps in districts with high concentrations of low income students

$15 million to fund scholarships for students attending community colleges to cover unmet tuition costs for students with financial need, as first proposed in the administration’s Fiscal Year 2019 budget proposal

$12.5 million for the Special Education Circuit Breaker

$7 million for regional school transportation costs

$3 million for early college grants to enable high school students to take college courses

– typically in science, technology, engineering, and math – and earn credits at no cost to them before they graduate

$700,000 for tuition and fee waivers for children who turned 18 while in the care of the Department of Children and Families (DCF) and enroll in college, and to children who have been adopted from DCF

The bill also provides new consumer protections for college students in Massachusetts by requiring public and private colleges and universities to report to the Department of Higher Education any known financial liabilities or risks to the long-term financial viability of the institution.

“We know, in talking to school superintendents to develop these proposals, that school safety is dependent on much more than better locks and communications systems. Our goal is to provide more support to schools, not only for better security systems, but also to enable them to employ the expertise of counselors, mental health professionals and social workers that can help students, and spot trouble signs before there is a tragedy,” Education Secretary James Peyser said.

“It is critical that our interventions develop and implement strategies that proactively address the behavioral health needs of youth to improve their quality of life in the classroom and at home,” said Health and Human Services Secretary Marylou Sudders. “No effort to address school safety is sufficient without addressing the behavioral needs of our youth.”

“This budget funds a series of steps to enhance the safety of students in the Commonwealth,” said Secretary of Public Safety and Security Dan Bennett. “While it is not possible to prepare for every possible threat, this comprehensive combination of preventive and educational measures puts us in a strong position to bolster student safety going forward.”

The education funding was filed as part of a supplemental budget bill for Fiscal Year 2018 (FY18) that also provides significant funding for local infrastructure improvements and allows for a deposit into the Commonwealth’s budget reserves. The FY18 supplemental budget consists of $575 million in supplemental appropriations, at a net state cost of $514 million. After accounting for certain outside sections, the total fiscal impact of the bill is $583 million.

“The Baker-Polito Administration continues to take a disciplined approach to spending taxpayer resources, targeting surplus funds in ways that will deliver meaningful benefits while protecting the budget’s long-term structural balance,” Administration and Finance Secretary Michael Heffernan said.

Other supplemental budget highlights:

- $94 million to fund ratified and anticipated collective bargaining agreements

• $50 million for cities and towns to fund local road and bridge maintenance and improvement projects

• $35.4 million for snow and ice removal costs in FY18

• $30 million for municipal clean water projects

• $10.1 million for the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission to provide employment assistance services to clients

• $10 million transfer to the Life Sciences Investment Fund

• $8 million for multi-year municipal police training needs

• $5.9 million for tuition and fee reimbursements for National Guard members

• $5 million in transitional housing assistance for hurricane evacuees from Puerto Rico, as FEMA assistance ends

• $1.5 million for Community Compact Efficiency and Regionalization grants

The bill will close the books on FY18, which ended June 30. Preliminary tax collections for FY18 are expected to be approximately $1 billion above budgeted estimates. About half of that amount will be transferred to the stabilization fund, bringing the estimated balance of that fund to nearly $1.8 billion. The bill allocates an additional $48 million to help pay down the Commonwealth’s unfunded retiree health benefit obligations.

over 2,000 residents this summer. In 2017, the kayaking program run by NOAA's Youth Leadership Crew served over 3,000 participants. Kayaking is so easy to do that just about anybody can handle it. NOAA uses very stable and comfortable sit-on-top ocean kayaks, so people don't feel confined by the boats. It literally takes no time for novice kayakers to get the hang of it on these boats. NOAA's kayaking program is made possible by a Save the Harbor Save the Bay Better Beaches Grant, as well as support from the American Canoe Association and the Department of Conservation and Recreation. POWERFUL WYNN EXECUTIVE SINATRA STEPS DOWN

EVERETT - When Kim Sinatra appeared beside Matt Maddox for Wynn Resorts' high-stakes meeting before the Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) in early May, many thought her to be on shaky ground with the company - though that day she appeared to be every bit in control and ingrained in the company. It is no longer the case. In a quiet announcement buried within a federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) document, the company announced that Sinatra left her general counsel post on July 15. Wynn Resorts did not respond to the Independent for comment on the shake-up, and hasn't issued any statements or talked to any other media. There has been no reason given for her departure. Sinatra was a powerful force in the early days of Wynn's entrance into the Boston market via the Everett site. She was front and center during many of the licensing hearings, in particular a very intense deliberating process at the Boston Teacher's Union Hall in Dorchester in 2014. During that meeting, Sinatra talked for many nervous moments on the phone with Steve Wynn about whether or not he would commit to additional mitigation measures - that happening in front of the entire room and in front of the competitor, Mohegan Sun. After brokering that deal, Sinatra emerged from the phone with a 'yes' to the commitments, virtually sealing the license for Wynn at the time. Since those early days, however, Sinatra has not been at the Encore site too often - only during a few permitting meetings and the major Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) meetings.

EVERSOURCE PROPOSES COLORFUL SOLUTION TO AN UGLY, OLD CHAIN FENCE

EVERETT - Eversource is proposing to the Planning Board to remove the old chain link fence that has dominated the entrance to the City for decades and replace it with a new, color fence to greet visitors to Everett and the Encore Boston Harbor casino. The new fence will be located in Everett and Boston, and require a review from both cities. The property is owned by Constellation, but Eversource operates and owns the large transmission facility on the property. "The project consists of removal of the existing ten-foot tall chain link fence surrounding Substation 250 and the associated switchyards, and replacement with an improved fence in the same footprint," read the filing. "The proposed fence will be more opaque than the existing chain-link fence, and will be patterned...The height of the proposed fence varies from 10 to 20 feet... The...proposed fence is designed to be patterned with varying color and gradation to maintain visual interest and adequately screen the property as visual impact mitigation." The fence will be about 4,418 linear feet, with 2,751 linear feet in Everett and 1,667 linear feet in Charlestown. A pole-mounted camera system would be proposed along the fence line. The proposed fence would use rectangular color patterns that would block out the view of the electrical equipment. Eversource officials said they have worked with the City and the Encore Boston Harbor casino to make sure the fence looked better and met security needs. "We're continuously evaluating enhanced security measures for our facilities," said Spokesman Mike Durand. "We've been working with the City and Wynn Casino to design a fence that will enhance the aesthetics of the area while also meeting our security needs." The fence proposal will go before the Planning Board on July 23. •Also on July 23, the six-unit project at 170 Bradford St. will go before the Planning Board for a Site Plan Review. The proposal passed the Zoning Board last summer with flying colors - as the new owners want to fix up what is a derelict property with a large lot (around 12,000 square-feet) Neighbors last summer overwhelmingly approved of the project.

THEIRRIEN NAMED NEW BOYS AND GIRLS CLUB DIRECTOR

LYNN - New Lynn Boys and Girls Club Executive Director Brian Theirrien hopes to expand the number of programs available for youths at the club this fall. Theirrien, 41, began on July 2 as the new executive director of the club located on North Common Street. He succeeds Robert "Obie" Barker, who stepped down after 19 years at the helm of the non-profit organization. Theirrien comes to Lynn with many years of experience in administration. He was the CEO of the Haverhill Boys and Club since 2007. He previously served as the club's program director from 2005 to 2007. He began his career in 1995 at the Friendly House in Worcester and worked as the director of sports and fitness at a club in Long Island, N.Y. Lynn boys and girls can expect an emphasis on sports and new leagues at the club. Theirrien was a star athlete at Holy Name High School in Worcester, where he played basketball and baseball. One of his coaches at Holy Name was J.P. Ricciardi, currently a baseball executive in the New York Mets organization. "He's [Ricciardi] a great guy," said Theirrien, who was a captain of a Holy Name basketball team coached by Ricciardi. Theirrien went on to play college basketball at Anna Maria College where he had his share of triple doubles for the Amcats. The new leader of the Lynn club said he is excited to work in the city. "The Lynn Boys and Girls Club has a deep tradition," said Theirrien. "It's one of the first clubs ever established in the country. It's always been on the radar. You can do a lot of good things for the children and families in Lynn and the club has great support from the community and board members. It is a very well-known organization within the Boys and Girls Club movement. When the opportunity arose, I wanted to put my name in for consideration." One of his main goals will be program development. Theirrien will launch in-house leagues in basketball and floor hockey and begin cheerleading and dance programs. He will expand the math and reading clubs, bring on board academic tutors, and add programs in computer technology and preparing students for college. "We're also going to have a nutrition component to our food program," said Theirrien.

He has met with Barker during the transition process. "Obviously Obie is one of the living legends in Boys and Girls Club leadership and it's great to follow up on his successful tenure here," said Theirrien. The club is currently holding its summer camp program in Middleton, along with a licensed child-care program in Lynn. "This fall, we'll have 400 youths per day at the club, ages 6 through 18," said Theirrien. "I'm looking forward to all the opportunities here and helping out all of our club members and their families." The club will soon start a major renovation project for the entire building. Theirrien and his wife have

TORNADO DAMAGE STILL BEING REPAIRED

REVERE - It's been four years since the tornado hit Revere on July 28, 2014, yet damage to the City Hall roof still has to be repaired according to George Anzuoni, head of the Tornado Damage Committee that still meets on a regular basis. In a meeting that was held last week, the committee discussed roof repairs for city hall and other damage. "We need to inspect the roof," said Kevin Buckley, of KBA Architects. "So far the inspection has been done with binoculars from the street." The total cost of the roof repair is $1.246 million, $280,000 under budget. Work to the roof by Gibson Roofing, will also include repairs to the cupola for $42,000 and cornice costing less than what was estimated. The clock on the cupola is also included in the work. The roof will be covered with an asphalt fiberglass shingle with a lifetime warranty. Anzuoni said this was the 51st meeting of the committee, which has navigated repairs and funding for public buildings damaged by the storm. "Approvals have been slow to come," Anzuoni said, adding the city hall is on the National Historic Register and the Massachusetts Historical Commission. The tornado that struck Revere was rated as an EF-2 intensity, with estimated peak winds of 100-120 mph. The survey says the storm carved a 2-mile path and was as wide as 3/8 of a mile. Anzuoni said they should be able to go to bid with this project in September with six to seven weeks of work to do. Part of the work will include haz-mat testing of the bird waste in the cupola. In other action, the committee approved four invoices allowing that the roofer would be able to get a better look at the damage and the areas of the roof that have leaked and caused further damage on the second floor of City Hall.

PROPERTY SALES PRICE DOUBLES IN A YEAR

REVERE - A recent sale on North Shore Road shows that the real estate market in Revere is only getting hotter. In 2017, the 31,000 square foot, former Rent-a-Tool building and surrounding 9.4 acres of land around it, was sold for $6.25 million to Alterra, of Philadelphia, a property development company. The Massachusetts-based, Calare Properties acquired the property on June 7 of this year for $12.4 million. "That's significant," said Bob O'Brien, director of the city's Economic Development Department. The 9.4-acre parcel located on Route 1A in Revere a short drive to Revere Beach, Logan Airport, and Downtown Boston. A two-story, 31,950 square-foot office and warehouse building built in 1920 stands on the parcel. About 25 percent of the building is comprised of office space, with the remainder of the building comprised of warehouse space with 23-foot-high ceilings and 10 overhead doors. Calare acquires and repurchases warehouse, manufacturing, research and flex/office assets in select markets. They identify unique opportunities and execute well-defined business plans, while providing real-time, day-to-day oversight for each investment. Charles Nolfi, of Calare, said the previous owner had purchased the building empty and then was able to bring in a full-building tenant on a long-term lease, which created significant value in the property. The tenant is AmQuip, a crane rental company with corporate headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. "It is also challenging to find urban-industrial land as most has been rezoned over the years for other purposes such as multi-family, office or retail development," Nolfi said. Rent-a-Tool had made its home in Revere for 63 years, supplying generators, trucks, light towers, blowers, a Bobcat and just about any other piece of equipment you can think of. At one point you could even go for a helicopter ride. Rent-a-Tool was owned by Steve Williams.
